

ABOUT CHULLYU

Chullyu is located in the Lower Subansiri district of Arunachal Pradesh. It is recognised as one of the cleanest villages in the region. Sustainable and organic agriculture in the hills is the main source of livelihood. The village is known for its hospitality, fresh wind and pleasant weather throughout the year. The community remains connected to their traditional roots despite embracing modern amenities. It's truly an eco-friendly and a responsible tourist destination. It is worthy to note that Chullyu is one of the first village in Arunachal to ban hunting.

BOTANIC TRAIL

Visitors can take a 2 km botanical trail where they can see intercropping like orange, pineapple, sugarcane and herbs in richly cultivated lands. A trail guide will inform visitors about the botanical species of the area. Beautiful flowers, nutritious herbs and wild edible berries depending on the season enhances the view of the botanical trail.

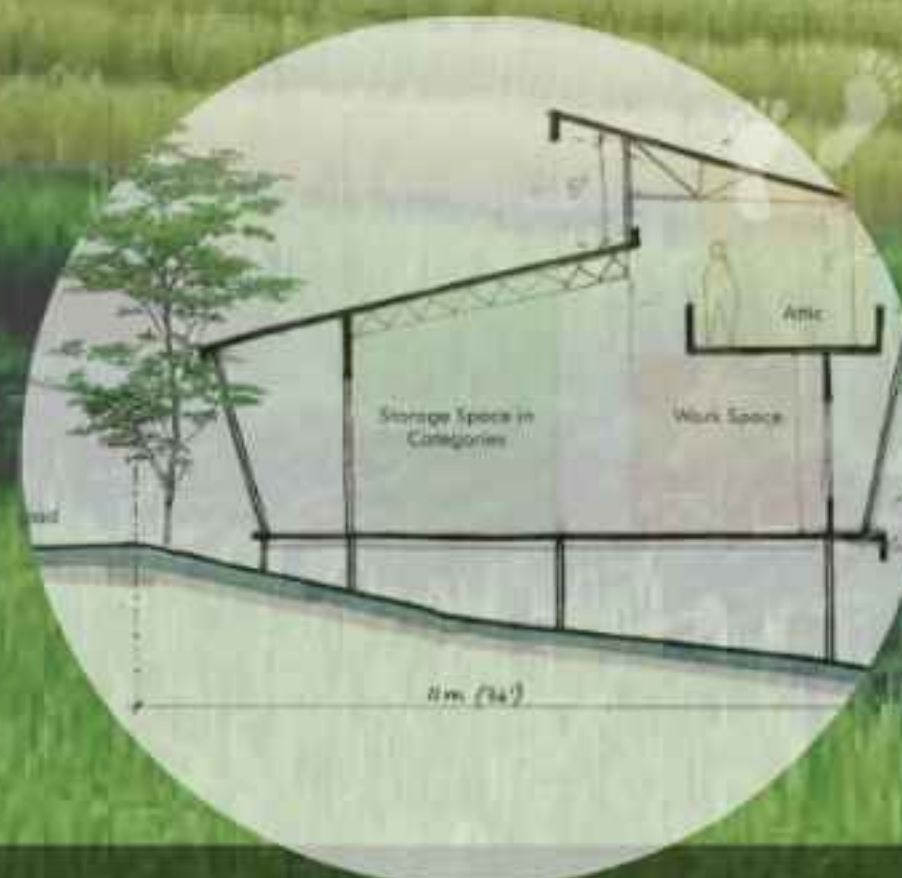

VILLAGE WALK

Visitors can take a walk to the interpretation center and the hanging bridge. They can do nature walks, visit organic farms and gardens and learn about the locally available botanical species. 2 hours can be easily spent strolling in the village.

U-PICK & FARM TO TABLE

Visitors can pluck fresh fruits and veggies directly from the trees such as oranges, guava, sugarcane, pineapple, brinjal, tapioca or pumpkin depending on the season and the farm's offerings. Guests can enjoy meals prepared with organic ingredients sourced directly from the farm.

RESOURCE CAFE

The village practices responsible tourism by managing its waste and transferring it to the Material Recovery Facility (MRF). Their effort to educate visitors and people from other regions about waste management is earning them a good reputation and expertise.

AGRO-SHOPPING

Visitors can purchase farm-fresh produce, homemade jams, jellies, and other products directly from the farm.
